Hartika composite decking, inspired by nature

Ice capped mountain tops, scorching sands, rainforests – the secret of longevity and strength is hidden in each and every ecosystem. To discover it, we visited the wildest and harshest corners of the world.

We observed the power of nature – as well as the determination of those pioneers, who learned how to build houses resistant to temperature fluctuations, rain, freezing temperatures, sea water as well as many other conditions which bring about the destruction of wood.

And the inspiration to create Hartika composite decking came from just that experience. We have combined the beauty of natural wood with a reliable and eco-friendly composition technology. The resulting decking delivers durability many times that of traditional timber.

This means that Hartika terraces remain beautiful for years, permanently transforming the appearance of your home and garden – despite the passage of time.
